

Ethics Forum 2011-2012

Ethical Obesity Policy

Dr. Angus Dawson

Angus Dawson (PhD) is Professor of Public Health Ethics and Director of the Centre for Biomedical Ethics, University of Birmingham, UK. His background is in philosophy, but he has specialised in teaching ethics to health care professionals and medical students for the last fifteen years. His main research interests are in public health ethics (particularly vaccinations and issues related to lifestyle choices) and the use of empirical evidence in moral arguments (particularly in relation to problems in gaining informed consent in clinical trials). He is joint Editor-in-Chief of the journal Public Health Ethics and joint coordinator of the International Association of Bioethics' Public Health Ethics Network (InterPHEN). He has raised over £1.5 million in grant income and been involved in research projects funded by the CDC, WHO, European Union and the Public Health Agency of Canada on a range of issues related to public health ethics. He has published over seventy papers and is editor or co-editor of five collections of original papers mainly on topics in public health ethics, including (with Marcel Verweij) Prevention, Ethics, & Public Health, Oxford University Press (2007) and Dawson, A. (ed.) Public Health Ethics: Key Concepts and Issues in Policy and Practice, Cambridge University Press (2011).
